1. Soviet Ingenieur-Büro 2 (SIB-2) is in process of complete dissolution and is therefore reassigning or dismissing its personnel. It has abandoned the designing of gas turbines and related developmental work. Thus the entire boiler department is being absorbed by the newly planned steam turbine factory at the Bergmann-Borsigwerk, Wilhelmsruh (C52), which was founded by the German Economic Commission. The Bergmann-Borsigwerk is also recruiting most of the leading designers and engineers of SIB-2, who are to be under the direction of Kuse with the approval of the SMA. Included among them is a large number of gas turbine specialists formerly with AEG, such as Otto Rosenlöcher, Hoffmann, Zabel, Giesseler, and Graul. Rosenlöcher was asked by Major Lasarenko as to whether he would consider going to the USSR. Lasarenko, however, will also be connected with the new factory.
2. A large amount of precision instruments and laboratory equipment which was stored in the cellars of SIB-2 has been packed for shipping to Leningrad.
